

MEET YOUR SPEAKER, DAN O'CONNOR

AUTHOR - SPEAKER - EXPERT COMMUNICATION TRAINER

Dan O'Connor has been helping individuals and organizations develop their communication and critical thinking skills for over fifteen years.

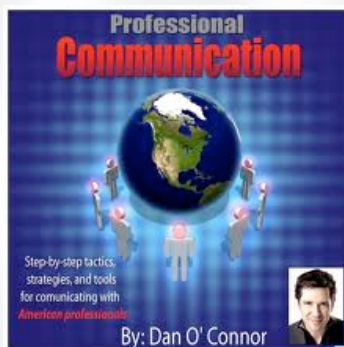

A communication expert recognized both nationally and internationally, Dan came to prominence through his development and delivery of programs that include dealing with difficult and demanding people, understanding and dealing with different personality types, speaking with power and precision, professional communication and etiquette, developing your personal compass, transformational thinking, customer service scripts and techniques, team-building and many many more—all programs based on self-development and powerful communication.

Having witnessed the business problems caused by office energy vampires, workplace negativity, interpersonal conflicts, and employees and supervisors struggling to “find the words,” Dan began developing tactical training programs that go beyond theory, and focus on scripts, phrases, communication systems, and memory techniques designed to deliver instant results.

The instant results? Transformation! Corporate and government offices with fewer problems, more satisfied employees, higher production, and more money on the bottom line.

Always staying true to his promise of No More Boring Training, Dan employs an interactive style uniquely his own—one that both informs and entertains his audience, in one transformational moment.

His seminar participants state in testimonial after testimonial that Dan's highly developed style, which mixes comedy, entertainment, advanced teaching methods, and even a little quantum physics, kept them riveted and wanting more.

Dan has produced hundreds of #1 rated podcasts (available on I-tunes), and is author of the best-selling communication resources “Communicate in America,” “Energy Vampire Slaying: 101,” and “Say This Not That” all available on Amazon.com.

And what does world-renowned author and motivational speaker, Dr. Kimberly Ventus-Darks, “Dr. Kim” who has had the honor of sharing the stage with Oprah, Dan and Bill Clinton, have to say? “Never before have I ever met a more intuitive, genuine, and business-focused person as Dan O'Connor. His deep level of profound wisdom makes him a highly sought-after speaker and communication expert around the world. His level of energy and unique ability to connect to people from all social strata makes him a remarkable role model for millions.”
-Dr. Kimberly Ventus-Darks

